PUMP TEAM CHANGES

I am sad to inform our readers that I have retired from the Pump. Stephen Murley has taken over and I am sure he will do a good job. He has been a constant help since joining the Pump team in 2017, sorting out our computer and checking over articles etc. I am handing over due to my failing eyesight as it is getting harder for me to see the words of wisdom that come in from our contributors. Jeff is still on the team.

-- Sarah Turk

A TRIBUTE TO SARAH

“John Nash and I came up with the idea for the Pump and kicked it off by mocking up a dummy, making 500 copies and distributing them around town with the request that anyone interested in the idea should come to a meeting at the Passmore Edwards Institute. At the meeting we asked for volunteers and Jeff and Sarah came forward. They stayed with the Pump for the whole of its life in one role or another. In the early days there was a lot of physical work producing the Pump using old-fashioned cut-and-paste techniques – with real scissors and paste! The printing was done on an old machine in what was Pratt’s Market and the pages had to be folded, collated and stapled. Without Jeff and Sarah there would be no Hayle Pump today.”

-- Robb Lello.

HELLO FROM STEPHEN

It is with great honour that I step up to the role of editor. I thank Sarah & Jeff who have been very supportive of me. Sarah has been the heartbeat of the Pump (along with Jeff) for years and Hayle is indebted to her commitment.

In other changes, Claire Sheppard takes over the role of Treasurer, who along with Tina, John, and Jeff, are now the Pump Team who do great work, all voluntary, to bring Hayle the Pump.

-- Stephen Murley.

Cornwall Hospice Care Shop Opens

With more retail space and a bigger area for receiving donated goods, Cornish healthcare charity Cornwall Hospice Care has officially opened a new store in Hayle's Penpol Terrace. The shop, which was the former Boots Pharmacy, offers a wide range of donated clothes, books, bric-a-brac and gifts and is already proving enormously popular.

Shoppers were queueing outside the new store yesterday (Wednesday 12th August) before its official opening by the charity's Chief Executive Paul Brinsley who said as he cut the ribbon; "The people of Hayle are always enormously supportive of our local shop because our St Julia's Hospice is based in the town. I thank them for their continuing generosity and wish the team here the very best of luck. I'm delighted that we're able to be a part of this vibrant community and a part of the high street as we believe it's very important to shop local. Stores such as this one are vital to our charity and make a huge contribution to our work caring for terminally ill patients.

The shop, which will be open from 10am to 4pm Tuesday to Saturday each week, replaces the former Cornwall Hospice Care shop in Commercial Road and is managed by Jim King; "It's good to have more room as we are so well supported by our local community. We've made the store as Covid secure as we can and I'd like to thank all those staff and volunteers who've helped shape this in to a very eye catching and modern shop. Medals recognise work for Hayle's heritage and Cornish culture

"This article first appeared in The Hayle Times edition of July 24th 2020. The photograph is by Barnaby Carver."

A MAN from Hayle has said he felt 'humbled' to receive awards in recognition of the community work he has done to raise the profile of the town's heritage and the Cornish dialect.

Trevor Smitheram, who is President of the town's Old Cornwall Society and volunteers at the Hayle Heritage Centre, was among the winners of Gorsedh Kernow's Adult awards announced last week.

The winners are honoured for promoting the Celtic spirit of Cornwall through creative or community work, and Mr Smitheram was the recipient of a Kemeneth (Community) award for his contribution to community and heritage in Hayle.

During the current Coronavirus lockdown, Mr Smitheram has been keeping people's spirits up by recording daily videos in which he reads humorous stories in the Cornish dialect; these are then shared on various Hayle-based social media pages. Given his love and mastery of dialect, it is no surprise that Mr Smitheram also received awards for his own self-penned prose and verse.

Winners of the annual awards are presented with a prestigious Awen medal, made in Cornwall by St Justin jewellery. In normal circumstances this happens at a special awards evening; however this year, the medals were delivered to the recipients at home.

Speaking on receipt of his prizes, Mr Smitheram said he was 'feeling humbled and excited'.

"I have just been awarded three Awen medals by Gorsedh Kernow; one for poems. one for stories and one for community work in Hayle," he said, adding: "We are such an important town, rich in history and of course our heritage. thank you everyone supporting Hayle.

Speaking about the awards, Cornwall's Grand Bard, Elizabeth

Millponds Update

I feel I must begin in this update by answering Robin Phillips' letter to the Editor because far from being no ducklings this year by the middle of June we had two broods, one of seven and one of ten babes, plus our survivor from the ducklings hatched in May. This is the largest number recorded on the ponds and thirteen have survived and they are growing well. Our drakes have all returned and have been going through their annual moult. We are feeding them with corn to keep them healthy and they are doing well so far. We see Harvey, our heron, now and then and two or three egrets. There is also a kingfisher, if you are lucky enough to spot it.

We were a little worried about the health of our golden carp, but he seems to be thriving in the Swan Pool and he has made friends with the six ducklings which have become residents on the top pond and swims around with them. Goldie is about twenty years old, but as long as he is active we will keep an eye on his progress.

The Gardens and the Rope Walk are being kept tidy and we are very grateful for everyone's efforts to respect the area, but we do have worries now that the recycling centres have been removed and waste might be left there. We have some beautiful wild flowers on both the Rope Walk and the River banks which would be damaged by dumping. All we can do is keep hoping that all stays well.

Keep enjoying the summer. See you all again soon.

This has been an unusual summer with no R.H.S. competition and judging in July to focus our attention on. However, as you know, planting took place throughout the town as usual and the containers and beds have been maintained during the summer by Hayle in Bloom volunteers and regularly watered by Olivia Pellow, our town gardener.

Thanks also go to other organisations e.g. Women's Institute, which have been responsible for specific growing areas. Congratulations to staff and pupils of St. Piran's school who have maintained the murals and re-planted the installations near Phillips and also to Paul Clark, who has master-minded the stocking and maintenance of the Isis Gardens in Foundry Square.

Finally, I imagine all Hayle residents have appreciated the way that Olivia and Tony have maintained the King George V Memorial Walk for us all to enjoy

Our Chair, Richard B., would like to thank all H.I.B. volunteers for all the hard work they have put in to help make Hayle look good this summer. He also notes that many residential gardens are looking really good this year, so 'well done' to all readers who have made their gardens look so well-tended and colourful this summer !

Talking of lovely gardens, here are the results of the H.I.B. 2020 Summer Competitions, judged in late July :

- Best Residential Garden
Paul and Margaret Clark ('outstanding').
- Best Dressed Pub
Royal Standard ('very colourful and well-tended')

Congratulations to both, the trophies are yours to keep. Let's hope we have even more entries next year !

On a more personal note, Jill, our secretary, is standing down due to ill health and our thanks and best wishes go to her. She has been very efficient ,energetic and enterprising in the short time she has been with us. This, obviously,

My nature observations have been fruitful over the last few weeks. Not only birds, but a wealth of wild flowers, some of which I have not seen before. A patch of purple loosestrife, a yellow flower called agrimony, a hypericum/St John's wort with a tiny star shaped flower, and various others of all colours, have brightened my daily walks, and increased my knowledge as I searched my books to identify them.

I was delighted to see an osprey dive over Copperhouse Pool, and most mornings saw a little family of seven swallows, perched on the power lines above Black Bridge, and chattering noisily to each other before taking off for another foray over the pool. There are usually quite a lot of swallows, but I have seen only these this year. Closer to home, I have two young herring gulls on my roof, and their parents raid my bird feeders to help feed their fast-growing youngsters. They don't leave much for the smaller birds, and I was a bit surprised that a bird seed diet was acceptable to them. The youngsters are playful, finding some item that rolls down the slightly sloped roof, and running after it, to carry it up and repeat the exercise. Gulls are not always well received, but my avian family has provided interest and entertainment, and been very well mannered!

I'm grateful that my life in Hayle provides so much Nature for me to enjoy. I hope yours is the same. Tina Morgan

What's happening with healthcare in West Cornwall?

You may have noticed that healthcare in our area (and across the UK) has changed during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Here is a summary of information provided to the Penwith Integrated Care Forum on 9th July, that may be useful.

Routine work (non-urgent) was stopped, but this is now in the process of being 'switched back on' in a safe way.

Most GP surgeries have moved to a telephone triage system, which means that people who contact them for help are called in the first instance to see if the problem can be dealt with over the phone, or using video consultation, or photos that are sent to the practice.

In order to minimise the risk to those people who do need to be seen face to face, surgeries are using separate areas or buildings to see people with symptoms of COVID. These separate 'hot hubs' have meant that routine monitoring and assessments can

Community teams reorganised to form the Community Co-ordination Centre (CCC). This allowed all referrals to the community teams (district nurses, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, home care teams, etc) to flow through one place and then be triaged to ensure the most appropriate action was taken.

There is a desire for more of the outpatient workload to be carried out closer to people's homes, potentially involving having outpatients appointments in community hospitals, GP surgeries or using newer technologies to communicate with people.

How patients access urgent care services, such as the Urgent Treatment Centre at West Cornwall Hospital and Minor Injury Units, is also being looked at. A new 'Think 111 First' scheme has been launched so patients can get pre-booked into Minor Injury Units or the Urgent Treatment Centre at West Cornwall.

Waiting rooms have much smaller capacity, due to social distancing, which explains the need to try and reduce the amount of people just

An Important Reminder from the Bodriggy Health Centre Patient Participation Group

Serious health issues and other diseases still develop during a pandemic and do require attention. Delays in getting treatment or diagnosis could have serious consequences.

Bodriggy Health Centre is open for ALL its patients, but is working in a very different way to keep both patients and staff safe.

While the country remains in the Covid-19 national emergency, Bodriggy is operating a telephone triage and video consultation service, to reduce patients' worries about the risk of catching the virus if they attend the surgery.

Please contact Bodriggy with ANY concerns you might have about suspicious new symptoms or changes in old ones; a doctor will call back. Contact the surgery by telephone on 01736 753136; by email turning up. But, be reassured, no patient will be turned away from Accident & Emergency Department without being triaged first.

Delivery of the flu and pneumonia vaccinations may be organised differently this year, so look out for information, or contact your GP surgery, to make sure that you get your jabs if you need them.

Councillor, Hayle North*

North Quay Footpath Registration- Your Help Needed

Many of you will have noticed fencing and signs going up on North Quay cutting off footpaths that have been walked, unimpeded, for decades if not centuries. This sign accompanies the fencing cutting off the paths to the south and west of the cricket club.

Even the Electric Works Road, used since 1905 when the original footpath was cut off by the power station, now has a 'permissive footpath' sign implying that the owner could refuse permission at any time. I can remember driving a car along this path back in the 70s and 80s.

To register these paths as 'definitive', and ensure they are not lost, it is necessary to collect evidence of use, without being challenged, over a twenty-year period. There is a simple, if tedious, form to complete. If you, and family and friends, have walked these paths over the last twenty or more years, please complete the form which you can download from <http://hayle.net/footpaths.htm>. You don't have to have covered the whole twenty year period, it will help if you have used the paths at any time over the last 1 to 50 years. Please return forms to me for collation and submission – the more forms we get, the better. Note that the developer of much of the area, Corinthian Land, has promised to include rights of way in the final development. It will, however, make the case for sufficient rights of way easier if we have your forms as evidence. Also, the Electric Road has been used for so long it would be quite a shock if it were closed to pedestrians.

Hayle Christmas Lights – what will the year bring?

Everyone knows what a difficult year this has been with all the effects of Covid-19. Our hearts go out to those that have suffered this illness and to the families and friends of those who have passed away due to it.

In some respects the problems of Hayle Christmas Lights and other similar groups and charities are small in comparison, however the effects have been wide ranging and the future is still uncertain.

Fund raising this year has been none existent with our activities in this area stopped completely. Planning has also been extremely difficult as virtual meetings cannot replace face to face meetings where discussions can flow more freely and decisions made.

Covid-19 has not gone away and there is the possibility that this winter will bring increasing risks and the restrictions being re-imposed. What does this mean for the lights in Hayle this Christmas?

- 1) As we have been unable to raise funds, but still had to pay out for various things (insurance, electricity standing charges, refurbishment of lights from last year, etc) and with no real opportunity to plan for new infrastructure any lights we can put up will be the same or similar to those last year.
- 2) The team that put up the lights may or may not be allowed to work together at the time when the lights should go up (late September and October) if restrictions are not eased or worse are made more severe as the need to work together in close proximity means social distancing is not easy to maintain.

3) Lights that are situated on business premises may be restricted depending on whether the businesses are open or not and even if open we may be limited on entering premises to install the lights.

Because of this, although we hope to put on a good display, we may not be able to. We hope the people of Hayle will understand the reasons for this and the fact we can make no promises at this time due to the continuing uncertainty of the situation.

If you would like to help out this year in fund raising, installing the lights or in any other capacity please contact haylechristmaslights@gmail.com or contact Patrick on 07787 962001. Alternatively go along to our Facebook page where you can join and offer to help.

UNITS AVAILABLE TO RENT

Foundry Farm has a small workshop currently available, and a larger workshop becoming available at the end of the year. Unfortunately, neither of these units are suitable for food preparation/cooking. There are communal toilets, including a disabled toilet. Each unit has its own sink and water heater.

In Dowren House we have a single office available now and another one becoming available at the end of the year. We may also have a double unit becoming available in the next few months. These units are only suitable as offices. There are shared kitchen spaces on each floor, communal toilets (including disabled toilet) and a shower room.

Pattern Shop has two large end offices that are available to rent immediately. These offices have their own kitchenettes and bathrooms and free access to a meeting room.

Right at the heart of Foundry Square in Hayle, Harvey's Foundry Trust (HFT) manages and operates the remaining buildings of Harvey's Foundry as a Heritage Centre and as offices that help to fund our charitable objectives. We started back in 1985, initially as the Hayle Town Trust, and we have now completed three phases of restoration. Phase three was valued at £4 million and included superb renovations of two historic buildings close to collapse. We now have our eye on Phase 4!

We are always looking for new trustees and the only requirements are to be 18 years old or older and enthusiastic about Hayle's heritage. We meet formally every three months but various committees meet more frequently. Find out more about us at www.harveysfoundrytrust.org.uk or contact me at brian.capper@btinternet.com.

THE CAST

The Cast wishes and hopes that every one of you is well and safe during these very strange and stressful times. Our most sincere condolences go out to anyone who may have lost relatives or friends through covid 19. These strange times will end and we will all get through this by maintaining a strong and positive attitude and strictly adhering to all regulations. Needless to say, we have had no alternative but to cancel current performance dates for our Aladdin production. However, even with lockdown and self isolation, The Cast is going strong with everyone learning their lines at home and

DYNAMIC DUNESCAPES PROJECT

Many of us know and love sand dunes as beautiful coastal landscapes, but they are also listed as one of the most threatened environments in Europe for biodiversity loss. These dunes are an important habitat for several rare species which are particularly adapted to life in the sand, but historic dune management has resulted in some dunes becoming over-stabilised, with too much vegetation. We now know that healthy sand dunes need to be free to move - to be dynamic.

Dynamic Dunescapes is a new partnership project, restoring 7000 hectares of sand dune habitat across England and Wales for the benefit of wildlife, people and communities. In Cornwall the project is being delivered by Cornwall Wildlife Trust, at two different areas of dunes: Penhale Dunes near carefully chosen locations. We are also improving overgrown dune slacks (damp or water-filled dips in the dunes) which are great places for lots of dune wildlife. Invasive species, including garden escapees, are being removed from the dunes, to create opportunities for native plants to flourish. Also, grazing animals are being used to increase dune health - by munching on plants they help to maintain a diverse mosaic of habitats. We are also encouraging responsible use of these beautiful areas.

There are a wide variety of ways the project is encouraging people to visit the dunes, to get to know them and help protect them, including:

Supporting existing volunteer groups such as 'Friends of The Towans' and creating new volunteer opportunities, such as species monitoring and 'dune health' surveys via our new Citizen Science project

Working with local schools, colleges and universities, to support using the dunes for learning

www.countryskittles.com

Building connections with existing site users and those who may enjoy visiting the dunes, such as people living with dementia

Organising arts events to encourage discussions and story sharing about the past, present and future of sand dunes

Learn more about the project at www.dynamicdunespaces.co.uk or find out what we're doing locally at our Cornwall Facebook page.

Copperhouse is much worse as there are buildings both sides of the road and traffic moves slowly. In Foundry the traffic is often at a standstill due to the traffic lights and round-about.

Work progressing well in regeneration of North Quay

Work is progressing well on the regeneration of North Quay with a number of milestones achieved in recent weeks.

Corinthian Homes started work on site in January and the first block of new quayside townhouses, Cannery Row, has superstructure complete and is on course for the first residents to move in during autumn. We are also busy with major excavations and reinforced concrete work to quaysides in preparation for further development, including the creation of underground car parking and incorporation of tidal defences as part of site-wide flood mitigation measures.

North Quay recently received a national accolade by winning the project category in the highly-regarded Housing Design Awards 2020. Early recognition of the quality of design and our commitment to delivering an exemplary scheme which will boost the local economy, generate employment and create a nationally significant new destination here in Hayle.

Throughout the project our aim is to employ as many local people and business as possible and we are already doing this as well as having initiatives under way for new apprenticeships in partnership with Camborne College.

Elsewhere on site, structural work is under way on the first block of apartments, work has started to prepare a new spine road which will link the waterfront and hilltop areas and demolition of some redundant buildings on site will start shortly.

With regards to ecology, we are engaging with the Towans Partnership and have had meetings on site with them and other local people.

This will include a phased programme of sea buckthorn removal, an invasive species dominating much of dunes, due to commence early September once birds have stopped nesting. A badger mitigation strategy is also due to be implemented in September with construction of a new artificial sett before any existing holes are sensitively closed in autumn using one-way gates.

There is a Virtual Exhibition on our website explaining our exciting plans recently submitted for Phase Two, which include a new hotel and community centre, improved water sport and harbour facilities, cinema and new open-market and affordable homes.

Seen today encased in scaffolding, Loggans, (pronounced Luggans) at the entrance of Hayle, is a sad sight but it has a milling history going back to the 15th century. Its heyday was in the late 19th and the early 20th centuries when it was associated with Hosken, Trevithick, Polkinhorn & Co Ltd, aka H.T.P. Who were these heroes of Hayle?

Hockin. Ben passed away in 1814 and William took over with some of his brothers.

The mill was extended and his son, also a William, took over. In 1852, a mighty fire destroyed the mill and the younger William rebuilt and extended it to the five-storey building we see today.

William Hosken was a progressive businessman who sought the latest milling technology, started making the popular white flour and supplied it throughout West Cornwall.

William married Catherine Pick whose father, Sam, had leased the Hayle Hotel from the Rev Hockin. When Sam got into financial difficulties, William and his family moved in and renamed it Penmare.

William had two children: Samuel, a farmer, who was more interested in the herd of cattle than the mill, and Catherine, who rode around West Cornwall helping her father by dealing with his customers. Catherine married John Rosewarne, a yeoman farmer at Nanpuska, in 1853. As he grew older, William became concerned for the future of the business he had developed and brought back his sensible daughter as a partner to Sam. Her son, William Ernest Rosewarne, was also concerned for the future and, as his grandfather passed his final years, he held secret meetings with the Trevithicks on the Towans. John Harvey Trevithick, a son of the famous Richard Trevithick, was a shopkeeper and miller at Foundry. John Harvey Trevithick inherited the shipping and retail interests of Harvey's. He had several sons with one, Richard, leading the family business. When William Ernest Rosewarne approached him with the suggestion of a consortium, he jumped at the idea. But where did the Polkinhorns fit in?
