Meet Feyja – Paradise Park's New Red Panda Arrival

Families visiting Paradise Park over the summer holidays have a very special new arrival to look out for – Feyja, a young female Red Panda who has just arrived from Copenhagen Zoo in Denmark.

Born on 5 July 2025, Feyja is the first of two young Red Pandas allocated to Paradise Park through the coordinated breeding programme for this endangered species. Her future companion, a young male from France, is expected to arrive shortly and will be called Rollo.

The Park's Curator, David Woolcock, said:

“Feyja arrived a few days ago and has already spent time exploring her new enclosure and large tree. We are leaving her travel crate in place while she settles in at her own pace. She is curious, calm and already winning hearts behind the scenes – and we hope visitors will enjoy spotting her as she becomes more confident in her new home.”

Watch a short video clip of Feyja here:
<https://youtu.be/2vjL55RrJL4>

Keeper Emma chose the name Feyja after the Norse goddess associated with love, beauty and magic. The name also links beautifully with Rollo, who is connected to Norse history and Normandy – a fitting nod to the pair's origins in Denmark and France.

Red Pandas are skilful tree climbers with thick russet fur, expressive faces and long, bushy tails, making them a favourite with visitors of all ages. They are endangered in the wild, with habitat loss and fragmentation among the threats they face.

Paradise Park is proud to support carefully managed breeding efforts that help maintain healthy Red Panda populations and raise awareness of this remarkable species.

Visitors may also see Paradise Park's much-loved resident Red Panda, Jai-Li, who celebrated her 15th birthday in June. Jai-Li arrived at Paradise Park in 2012 as a one-year-old and has played an important role in the Red Panda breeding programme, raising seven cubs over the years.

She is an older panda but continues to do well and remains one of the Park's most popular animals.

Supporting Conservation Efforts

Over the past ten years, Paradise Park Wildlife Sanctuary has contributed £20,720 to the Red Panda Network, thanks to donations from the Red Panda Experience programme.

These funds have supported the Red Panda Protected Forest, establishing the world's first protected area dedicated to Red Pandas, as well as the Plant A Red Panda Home campaign, which has resulted in the planting of 15,113 trees.

Do you own a dog, or two, or more?

Hayle must have more doggy residents than most places! Very apt, therefore, that The Cinnamon Trust has its National Headquarters in Hayle.

I visited Cornwall a number of times before coming to live here in 2013, and being a 'doggy person', I was always intrigued by Cinnamon here in Hayle. Once I moved here, and discovered more about this great organisation, it wasn't long before I offered to walk dogs for The Cinnamon Trust.

Over a few years, I walked several dogs for their owners, who were unable to do so themselves for health or age reasons. We became friends, and even after I stopped the dog walks, I kept in contact with their owners. The dogs, Abbie, Bertie, Sophie. James and Crumpet, Ruby and Scruffy all benefitted from the walks, and I remember them all with affection.

I've been a dog lover all my life. I hankered for a dog of my own at a young age, and pestered my parents until they bought me a puppy one Christmas. I was in Seventh Heaven, but alas, the poor wee thing succumbed to distemper, a terrible puppy disease, just two weeks later. Since then, many dogs have passed through my life, and Frankie is the most recent. He came to live with me four years ago, when his previous owner had a change of circumstance, and could no longer keep him. Frankie gives me company, he makes me laugh with his funny ways, he keeps me fit by taking me for walks two or three times a day. I think he's the best dog in the world, as do most other owners of their dog!

Frankie has befriended many of the staff at The Cinnamon Trust. He gets excited when he sees them coming towards him. Sadly, it is cupboard love – it's the treats they give him that he likes best! But I feel a great respect for

The Cinnamon Trust and the wonderful work it does, not only locally, but throughout the country. Their newsletter is always full of appreciative comments from those who are helped or who help. I thank them for their friendship to Me and my Dog.

More next time.

How many of you have noticed the Hayle Bouledrome?

It's situated next to our swimming pool, just round the corner from the Rivière Cafe, and commemorates the 25 year twinning partnership between Hayle and Pordic

It's available for anyone to use, free of charge, and a set of boules can be borrowed from the Riviera café.

How to play boules (or pétanque)

Ideally 2-3 players per team

Select 2 boules each, the team leader throws the Jack onto the pitch.

Players take turns throwing their boules and the boule nearest the Jack wins.

This is the basic idea , but as you might imagine there are refinements and rules not to mention techniques. If you want to know a bit more I recommend 'How to play pétanque for beginners' on YouTube.

And for those who get the hang of it and want to take it further - join us in fielding a couple of teams from Hayle in next year's annual Boules contest at the Pétanque Piste in Boscawen park Truro

If you would like to know more about twinning, contact Maureen Mason maureenmason2000@yahoo.co.uk or Mike Stuckey mikeajstuckey@gmail.com

Remembering Rick Rescorla – 25th Anniversary

Friday 11th September 2026 marked the 25th anniversary of the 9/11 terrorist attacks in the USA, when Hayle-born hero Rick Rescorla lost his life while helping to rescue thousands of people from the South Tower of the World Trade Centre in New York.

Hundreds of people gathered to watch a special parade from Penpol School to the Rick Rescorla Memorial on Penpol Terrace, where a ceremony was held to celebrate Rick's life, career and extraordinary bravery, while remembering the thousands of other people who lost their lives on that tragic day.

The poignant ceremony included speeches, readings, prayers, wreath-laying and Cornish songs.

Among those taking part were the Lord Lieutenant of Cornwall, representatives from the armed forces, the High Sheriff of Cornwall, Perran Moon MP, the Mayor of Hayle and local councillors, Reverend Michelle Porter-Babbage, the Marazion Apollo Male Choir, pupils from Hayle schools and members of local community groups.

The event brought together people from across Hayle and beyond to remember a remarkable man whose courage and actions saved countless lives.

A livestream of the event remains available for a little while longer on the Hayle Town Council Facebook page. There has also been extensive coverage in both the local and national press, with links to some of the coverage available through the Council's website and social media.

Our heartfelt thanks go to everyone who worked behind the scenes to make this special event possible, and to all the members of our community who came along on the day and helped make it such a fitting tribute to Rick Rescorla and all those who lost their lives on 11th September 2001.

Hayle Glassworks and the surviving chimney stack.

The North Quay chimney is one of the last visible reminders of a little-known chapter in Hayle's industrial history – glass making.

The Glass Works during and just after the First World War, a glass factory operated on North Quay. The first company was the Cornish Glass Works (1917–1919), followed by the Pentowan Glass Works (1920–1925). They used local materials, including sand from Hayle Towans and china-clay waste from the St Austell area.

Unfortunately, the local raw materials contained relatively high levels of iron, which meant the factory could only produce dark green and brown glass.

Most of the output was beer bottles for local breweries, limiting the market for their products.

The later Pentowan company invested in a larger furnace capable of producing around ten tons of molten glass and hoped to expand into jam jars, medicine bottles and sauce bottles using recycled glass. Despite these efforts, the business was not commercially successful and closed in 1925.

The Chimney

The chimney itself is actually older than the glass works. It originally served the Pentowan Calcining Works, which refined arsenic recovered from mining waste from nearby Wheal Lucy. When the glass works took over the site, they reused the existing chimney for their furnaces.

After the glass works closed, most of the buildings were eventually demolished. The site later became home to an ICI/Associated Octel bromine extraction plant during the Second World War, producing additives for aviation fuel. The chimney survived while the surrounding industrial buildings disappeared.

Why It Matters

Today the North Quay chimney is one of the few surviving structures that tells the story of Hayle's brief glass-making industry. While Hayle is famous for the engineering achievements of John Harvey and the town's foundries, the chimney is a reminder that the town also experimented with other industries as mining declined in the early 20th century.

An interesting detail is that during the North Quay regeneration works of 2011–12, the chimney was deliberately retained as an important historic landmark.

Progress Continues at John Harvey House

Over the past year, we have continued capital works on our Grade II* listed building, John Harvey House, the former office building for the 19th-century engineering giants Harvey & Co. Structural work on the building's historic Drawing Office is now nearing completion, thanks to a grant from Historic England.

The completion of this phase marks an important milestone.

We are now pleased to announce that we have been awarded further funding from the Architectural Heritage Fund to start the final phase of the project. This exciting phase will focus on completing the capital works and creating a new museum for the town. The museum will celebrate Hayle's rich industrial and social history, creating a welcoming space where the local community and visitors alike can explore the stories that have shaped this town.

Before this project begins, and while the building remains closed, we have created a Mobile Museum, allowing us to take collections, stories and activities out into the community. Central to the Mobile Museum is our new town banner, created by artist Elizabeth Loveday.

The banner tells 33 stories from Hayle's past, beautifully woven together, celebrating the town's people, its landscape, its industries and traditions. We are already planning additional dates for the pop-up, and we look forward to announcing more opportunities for people to get involved over the coming months.

Hayle Memory Cafe

We were delighted to be in the final of the BBC Radio Cornwall Make a Difference Awards.

Although we didn't win, we were highly commended. This was a wonderful achievement, recognising the hard work of our volunteers and how much people enjoy coming to the café.

There was much fun and laughter at our indoor seated Sports Day.

Recently, we enjoyed a wonderful afternoon of music, singing and dancing with Jacob Reed.

Forthcoming afternoons include making autumn crafts, shanty singers, Christmas crafts and Christmas lunch. Do come and join us for peer support

I start with a reminder that our weekday Mass is now on a Wednesday, not Tuesday. There is no longer a weekend Mass at St Joseph's. Penzance, St Ives and Camborne are the nearest – check online for Mass times. Everyone is welcome to join us at our social afternoon on the second and fourth Tuesday afternoons of the month, from 2pm–4pm. We have a short time of prayer, afternoon tea with delicious home-baked cakes, lots of chat, a five-minute quiz, a sales table and raffles. We would love to see some new faces!

Our Parish Priest, Father Michael, is currently on the Isles of Scilly, providing services for the parishioners of St Mary's Church. Father David and Father Thomas are covering for him. Tina Morgan.

Hayle Lions would like to thank the local community for all their support during our recent fundraising activities.

We also appreciate all the comments made and are very much aware of local needs.

Being part of Lions International means not just supporting local needs, but also helping with international disasters, of which there have been many this year.

Although locally we are now a much smaller group, we are still as determined as ever to do all we can for the people of Hayle in need.

We would like to invite anyone interested in joining us to our next meeting, which is on the second Tuesday of the month at 7.30pm at the Passmore Edwards Institute.

We still rent out a marquee to help with fundraising. Please contact Alan on 07510 267450 for more information.

We have recently been asked to attend to the two plots outside the Passmore Edwards Institute. If anyone with green fingers could spare an hour to help, we would be very grateful.

Hayle people are proud to support their town, and the Hayle Lions are no exception.

So, keep on roaring loud and clear!

Hayle Lions.

Born to run, free to be me,
As free as the bird on the wing,
As it soars and glides above the land,
Its vision as clear as the ocean.

The land stretches before him,
As my future lies before me.
I can land and rise like each new day,
I can thank God and give Him praise.
I am reborn,
So I can start a new journey
And fly.

Carol Curnow.

Then the Dancing Flea Orchestra might just be what you are looking for. We are a community-based ukulele band, and our aim is to provide entertainment for other community organisations.

We play to memory cafés, care homes, and groups serving the needs of others. We also play at village fayres, fetes, festivals, and fundraising events. Importantly, for not-for-profit organisations, we play for free.

come along and try us out.

It's handy if you already have a ukulele, but we do have instruments which can be loaned out, to enable new players to get to grips with the simple chords which are the key to many popular songs. And off you go!

Every six weeks or so, on a Wednesday evening, we hold a ukulele jam at Hayle Rugby Club. People from far and wide come together to play and sing a variety of songs, including pop, rock, blues, and Cornish music.

It's a very popular occasion, and we make use of the rugby club bar and often enjoy a proper Cornish pasty at half-time. Please come along if you fancy it. You don't even need to bring a ukulele with you; we can lend you one for the evening. All music is provided. Come for a great evening's sing-along.

We're taking bookings for next year now, so if you run, or are involved in, a community group which would enjoy some entertainment, get in touch.

We normally play for up to an hour, and we can provide a variety of music to suit any occasion.

And don't forget, we play for free.

Interested? If you are, give Dave a call on 07891 340539, or email dancingfleaorchestra@gmail.com.

HADS – The Final Curtain

In 2021, following COVID and the demise of two other theatre groups in Hayle (PANTO and The Cast), a meeting to form another group and revitalise the name of HADS (Hayle Amateur Dramatics Society) was called by Lin and Ken Townend.

The meeting was attended by many individuals who were interested in performing theatre for the residents and visitors of Hayle and in enjoying the social benefits this would give everyone.

It was decided to put on one or two shows a year. Realising there was no suitable stage to perform on in Hayle, we sought out a venue at the Hayle Day Care Centre. We constructed our own portable stage, which could be assembled for the duration of the shows and then stored away afterwards.

The Hayle Day Care Centre has continued to provide a home and support for the group ever since, for which we are very grateful.

Funding for the initial show came from a grant made by Hayle Town Council, allowing us to complete the stage and purchase the required lighting. Sound equipment for a few pantomimes was kindly loaned by one of our members.

Further funding from Hayle Lions and Hayle Town Council allowed us to purchase better lighting, as well as our own sound equipment.

Our first pantomime, Aladdin, was performed at Easter 2022, and the enthusiastic encouragement we received from our audiences made us want to go even further and do even better.

More shows followed, including Mother Goose (October 2022), Snow White (Easter 2023), Bah Humbug (Christmas 2023), Cinderella (Christmas 2024) and Sinbad (Easter 2026). Our thanks go to Blewetts Toy Shop for kindly selling tickets for all our shows.

During this time, we have had a nucleus of members who have been with us throughout, whilst others have joined and participated in some or many of the shows. Some have trodden the boards, whilst others have supported us backstage and front of house. The age range of our actors has been from 7 to 80+, and it has been great to see how some of these, especially our younger members, have developed over the years.

Unfortunately, time moves on, and some of our younger members are moving on to pastures new, whilst many of our older members are getting too long in the tooth to continue. So, sadly, our next performances of Sleeping Beauty will be our final shows, with the actual final date being Friday, 1st January 2027.

This is, of course, unless we can find any interested individuals or groups who would join us to help continue the success of HADS. It does seem a shame to let all the talent out there go to waste. We feel HADS could be saved. It is hoped that our final performances, which will all be matinees starting at 2:30pm on 28th, 30th and 31st December 2026, and 1st January 2027, will be met with the same enthusiasm as our previous ones and will allow us to bow out with a bang.

We are also hoping that anyone who has been involved with HADS over the years will come along and join us for the final curtain on 1st January 2027.

Anyone can contact HADS at hads.hayle@gmail.com or ring Ken Townend on 07733 156530.

Nature Notes

After our magnificent summer, autumn has arrived – fallen leaves, chestnuts and beech mast crunch beneath our feet as we walk. As the poet John Keats described it, a 'season of mellow fruitfulness'.

I find autumn a peaceful season, quietly preparing for the long, cold days of winter. It's not too hot, not too cold – ideal for walks in the subdued sunlight, and fun for the kids to kick up the fallen leaves.

Soon the birds will return to the feeders we put up for them, after gorging on the fruits and berries that nature provided. The feeders are worth keeping an eye on – unusual birds do turn up now and again. A friend spotted a pair of corncrakes in her garden just the other day! I will be keeping a sharp eye open in case they call at mine!

Enjoy these autumn days while they last.

'Til next time,

A HUGE THANKYOU

from all the volunteers at Phillack Church

And the many people that came brought your flowers, and yourselves and contributed towards making the weekend so special

Say it with Flowers

We would love to say thank you to Hayle & all the visitors who contributed to our wonderful celebration of flowers and the important role they play in our lives.

Those of you who came with your vases of flowers, bunches from your garden or posies from the hedgerows, along with your lovely messages, touched the hearts of all who read them. Thank you for sharing your precious memories. We learnt about organisations that use flowers to generate funds to help with medical research and projects to help those less fortunate. These included our own

WI, the Marie Curie Appeal, the Alzheimer's Society, the British Legion Poppy Appeal and The Salvation Army.

On Saturday, we were blessed by the wonderful peals from our bell tower. Our own bell ringers, were joined by ringers from other churches in our area. During the afternoons over the weekend, we had Kevin and David entertaining us on the organ.

While all of this was happening, we kept the cake & tea coming to accompany the lively chatter in our Lady Chapel Tearoom. The children delighted us with their colourful flowers and bugs.

Over the three days, we asked you for flowers, your messages and memories. It is therefore amazing to us how generous you have been with your donations in our pretty tins.

God bless all of you.

With love from Eileen

Hayle in Bloom September 2026

It was rewarding to note that, because of all the hard work carried out by our volunteers, Olivia and her team, and others, the planters (tubs, troughs and towers), as well as beds throughout Hayle, were generally prepared and planted out early enough for Easter flowering and colour throughout the summer.

Our biggest issue, then, was ensuring that plants received enough water to survive, and even thrive, during another hot, dry summer. We are indebted not only to Hayle volunteers, residents and businesses who watered their own planters, but especially to our Chairman, Nick Reynolds, who devoted many evenings to towing the water bowser around the town (whilst this was permitted), providing planters and their plants with life-giving water.

A splendid effort by all in Hayle who remembered to water. Well done to all of you. The colourful floral displays have been commented on by residents and visitors alike!

Our South West in Bloom (SWIB) judges visited Hayle in mid-July for two days in order to make their assessments. The team comprised the lead judge, Lesley Jolleyman, and Barbara Hannan, who were both enthusiastic about biodiversity (the interaction between all living plants and animals).

They both seemed very impressed by what they observed on their guided 'tours' of the town and its surroundings over the two days, and during the 'concluding remarks', Lesley is quoted as saying: "Thank you to Hayle in Bloom for showing us around your blooming, wonderful town. You demonstrate the power of a community, changing grey spaces into welcoming and inviting blooming areas."

We hope that her words are reflected at the South West in Bloom presentations which, this year, will be made at the Atlantic Hotel, Newquay, in early October. We also hope that this location will ensure a good turnout of volunteers!

Our thanks, this month, go to the following:

- Hayle Town Council for their generous and ongoing support
- Olivia, Hayle Head Gardener, Phil and Kieran, Maintenance Team, for their practical assistance
- All our volunteers who continue to give their time, effort and expertise in order to make the town look so good
- All our sponsors, whether large or small
- Jewsons (Hayle) and Rabarts (Redruth)
- Green Waste Company for recycling services

Hayles Ancient Harbour

Long before Harvey's Foundry, steam engines and the Industrial Revolution transformed Hayle, its greatest asset was already there—the magnificent natural harbour formed by the Hayle Estuary.

For thousands of years, the estuary has been one of only two naturally sheltered harbours on Cornwall's north coast, the other being Padstow. This made Hayle a vital stopping place for traders, fishermen and travellers navigating what has always been one of Britain's most challenging coastlines.

Archaeological discoveries reveal that people have lived around the estuary since prehistoric times. Mesolithic flints dating back around 10,000 years have been found, alongside evidence of Bronze Age settlements at nearby Gwithian and an Iron Age hillfort overlooking Carnsew Pool. From this commanding position, ancient inhabitants could watch every vessel entering and leaving the harbour.

Historians believe Hayle became an important centre for the prehistoric tin trade. Cornwall's tin was one of Europe's most valuable commodities, and merchants are thought to have sailed here from Ireland, Brittany and possibly even the Mediterranean. Imported pottery and amphorae discovered around the estuary suggest Hayle was connected to an international trading network long before the Romans arrived in Britain. The estuary also played a significant role in the spread of Christianity. Around the fifth century, Irish missionaries crossed the sea to Cornwall, bringing their faith with them. One of the most remarkable reminders of this period is the Cunaide Stone, one of the oldest inscribed Christian memorial stones in Cornwall, discovered on the slopes above the estuary.

During the Middle Ages, Hayle's fortunes declined. Centuries of tin streaming upstream washed huge quantities of silt into the estuary, making navigation increasingly difficult.

Trade gradually shifted towards St Ives, whose harbour became easier to access.

Everything changed again during the eighteenth century. Engineers and entrepreneurs recognised the value of the harbour and began constructing quays and docks. Hayle rapidly developed into one of the world's greatest mining ports, exporting steam engines and engineering expertise across the globe. The ancient harbour that had welcomed Bronze Age traders was now sending Cornish technology to every continent.

Today, while the estuary is internationally recognised for its birdlife and forms part of the Cornish Mining World Heritage Site, it still tells the story of 10,000 years of human activity. Every tide that sweeps through Hayle carries echoes of prehistoric traders, Celtic missionaries, medieval fishermen and Victorian engineers—all linked by one remarkable natural harbour.

Did you know?

The name Hayle comes from the Cornish word "Heyl", meaning estuary—a reminder that the harbour has always been at the heart of the town's identity.

Hayle Food Bank

Supporting local people when they need a helping hand

Hayle Foodbank was formed in 2012 to provide short-term support to local people in the Hayle area who find themselves facing difficult circumstances, such as waiting for benefits, losing a job, relationship breakdown, unexpected bills or homelessness.

The aim has always been to help people get back on their feet as soon as possible, working with other agencies where needed to give the correct support at the right time.

How to Get Help

You can self-refer for up to three food parcels in any 12-month period.

If you need more than three parcels, this can be extended to six parcels in 12 months with a referral from a GP surgery, Health Visitor, Social Worker, Mental Health Key Worker or another appropriate agency.

You can turn up at Hayle Methodist Church, behind the War Memorial, between 10am and 12 noon on Saturday mornings. However, it is always better to contact the Foodbank in advance, as food storage is limited and less usual items may not always be available.

Contact Hayle Foodbank by email at haylefoodbank@gmail.com or telephone 07713 171495.

Each parcel contains a substantial amount of food, so people do not generally need to request a parcel every week and can make their supplies last.

Toiletries such as shampoo and shower gel are also available where needed, along with pet food.

There are also "help yourself" food cupboards at Phillack Church Hall, near Home Bargains, and at Foundry, near the Post Office.

Details are often posted on the Everything Hayle Facebook page.

How You Can Help

There are lots of ways you can support Hayle Foodbank.

You can donate food, pet food or toiletries at the collection points at:

ASDA Hayle, behind the checkouts
WJ Winn Funeral Directors,
Copperhouse & Hayle Methodist Church, between 10am and 12 noon on Saturday mornings

Money donations can also be made.

Please visit the Foodbank's website or Facebook page for information on how to donate.

Volunteers Needed

Hayle Foodbank is also looking for volunteers who can spare a few hours on a Saturday morning to help with:

- Packing food parcels
- Delivering parcels
- Shopping for food
- Collecting vegetables

Please call us to make an appointment on:

Email: enquiries@cvc-solicitors.co.uk

Your own transport is required for the last three activities.

If you would like to volunteer, please email haylefoodbank@gmail.com.

Thank You, Hayle!

Hayle Foodbank is incredibly fortunate to have such a generous and supportive local community.

Donations of food and toiletries are regularly received through collection points at ASDA Hayle, Copperhouse Chemist and WJ Winn Funeral Directors, as well as through financial donations from local individuals and organisations.

There are far too many generous supporters to name everyone individually, but special thanks must go to the Hayle Runners, Thurstan Hoskin Solicitors and their clients, who make regular donations, as well as Riviere Farms, who generously donate fresh vegetables, and Pengelly's Farm, who donate potatoes.

Local schools and churches are also particularly generous at Harvest and Christmas, helping to support the Foodbank's Christmas Parcel operation. At Christmas, the Foodbank can provide special parcels to up to 80 local families.

The continued generosity of the Hayle community makes a real difference to local people when they need it most.

The Growth of Housing in Industrial Hayle

In the eighteenth century, Hayle was a hive of industrial activity on a large scale.

The majority of workers lived in the farming areas of the St Erth Valley and Angarrack, as these places were already densely populated due to tin mining, together with tin stamping and corn mills.

The earliest recorded residential properties directly associated with Hayle's industries were built at Carnsew in 1758. The Cornish Copper Company (C.C.C.), which came to Hayle in 1756, was building residential properties by 1779 using scoria blocks. Scoria was the waste material produced during copper smelting and was moulded into building blocks of various sizes. These were used to construct many houses, including some along the Bodriggy foreshore, now known as Fore Street.

By 1785, there was a sufficiently large community to warrant the construction of a Methodist chapel, built entirely of scoria blocks. This original chapel was demolished in 1820. John Wesley is said to have preached there in 1787 and reportedly remarked:

"This building is unlike any other in England, both in its form and materials. It is exactly round and composed of wholly brazen slag, which I suppose will last as long as the earth.”

A new chapel was built in 1820 between what are now St John's Street and Bodriggy Street. It remained in use until its closure in 1972.

Riviere House was built in 1791 on what is now the King George V Memorial Walk, and a number of cottages were also constructed in the Ventonleague area.

During the late eighteenth century, houses were also built at Glebe Row, part of the hamlet of Undercliff, Phillack. These were constructed by local tradesmen using scoria blocks purchased from the Cornish Copper Company. Harvey's of Hayle, established in 1779, began on a modest scale, employing around fifty men, most of whom came from St Erth. By 1791 there were only two substantial houses and a handful of cottages in the Foundry area. The major development of both Foundry and Copperhouse took place between about 1810 and 1830, coinciding with the rapid expansion of both foundries.

At Copperhouse, the Cornish Copper Company acquired leases on part of the Bodriggy Estate and laid out a grid of streets. Individual tenants built their own homes, sometimes in small groups, while Ventonleague expanded at the same time.

Near the quays, a Market House had been built by 1814, later replaced by a larger purpose-built market house in 1839. Many of the new houses were built not only for employees but also for local miners. A significant phase of development followed the acquisition of land around Copperhouse Creek, enabling the Cornish Copper Company to extend North Quay, construct East Quay, and create Penpol Terrace on reclaimed land. These houses were intended mainly for schoolteachers, sea captains and other professional people.

The expansion of Harvey's Foundry also encouraged further settlement in the valley, including the construction of Drovers Row. As the company enlarged its stables to accommodate the growing number of draught horses needed for transporting heavy goods, additional cottages were required for the workforce.

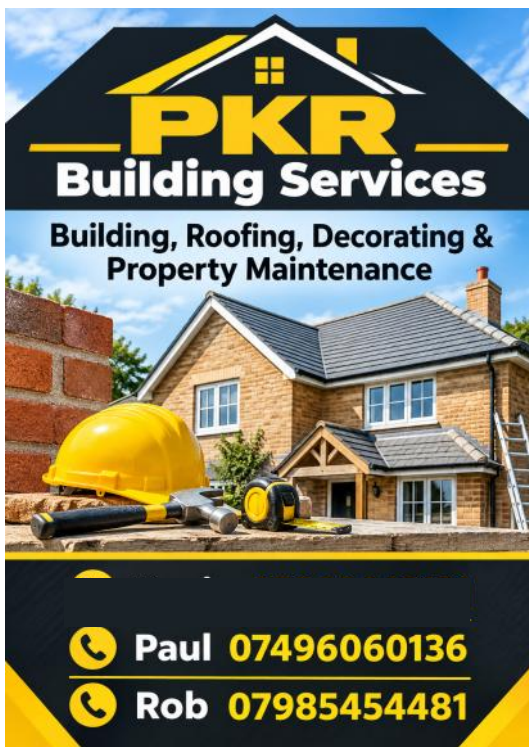

By 1842, the Foundry settlement had developed a distinctly different character from Copperhouse. It contained large houses set within spacious grounds, together with only three or four rows of workers' cottages. One of these was Mill Row, now known as Trelissick Row, where many employees of the hammer works and rope works lived. The rope works manufactured ropes for the ships built by Harvey's. Workers also lived along Penpol Road. By 1840, Harvey's employed more than 800 people at its foundries and wharves.

It is clear, however, that only a proportion of this workforce actually lived at Foundry, where many of the facilities were provided specifically for the benefit of the company. The first White Hart Hotel, built in 1824 (now the Masonic Lodge), and the second White Hart Hotel, built in 1838, were intended to accommodate and entertain visiting businessmen.

Harvey's also built a school on Foundry Hill for the children of its employees, together with shops and an emporium operated by the company itself. Employees were often paid half of their wages in company tokens, ensuring they purchased their goods from Harvey's Emporium. This practice continued until the introduction of the Truck Act, which required employers to pay workers entirely in legal currency, allowing them to shop wherever they wished.

The remarkable growth of Hayle during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries transformed what had once been a collection of small settlements into one of Cornwall's most important industrial towns. The houses, streets and public buildings created during this period remain a lasting reminder of the town's extraordinary industrial heritage.
